Introducing The Money Fit Programs

Program #1: Money Fit Kids (2nd-5th Grade)

Kids between the ages of 8 to 12 have a remarkable capacity for knowledge building when it comes to financial literacy – if they're taught using age appropriate learning tools. Enter Nicole's signature Money Fit Kids Financial Literacy Program. Using age-appropriate board games, books, and movies as key learning tools, Nicole teaches kids how money really works and the spirit of entrepreneurship. Topics include a healthy view of money, being a good financial steward, how to earn income, the basics of budgeting, giving, taxes, loans, credit cards, and debt. Finally, kids have the opportunity to start their own mini-mogul businesses.

Program #2: Money Fit Teens (6th-12th Grade)

Introducing The Money Kids for Teens Financial Fitness Challenge. In her signature program, Nicole educates teens on the values associated with faith, family, and finances. Challenges include how to write a realistic budget, how loans and credit cards work, the positives and negatives of compound interest, how to use cash or credit responsibly, and debt avoidance in college planning and life. Finally, the participants will have the opportunity to start their own profitable businesses.

A Parent's Praise for Money Fit Kids

"My husband and I feel that financial literacy should start at an early age to help kids become financially savvy young adults who can make healthy financial decisions and wake up an entrepreneurial spirit within.

We have always discussed the lack of finance tools in schools starting at a young age. Nicole was a wonderful teacher who used age appropriate tools to teach and Galilea genuinely looked forward each and every morning to her class. I hope that you continue to offer this camp and help start a new generation of Wildcats that will have the advantage in becoming financially successful in the future using God's words as a guide and programs like this one.

P.S. - Nicole, Galilea loved her Pink Calculator she received from you. Thank you!"
